Our changing world requires changing the way we do business.

In today's rapid-fire style business approach to designing, manufacturing and selling products to meet a growing demand for prime quality products for our law enforcement, EMS/Fire, public safety and military customers, we often ignore the most important component in the entire process.

Relationships.

Building key customers within our sector takes commitment and time. In our digital age, relationship building suffers on the heels of a need for speed. At NAPED, we recognize that change is imperative, but only if built on a solid foundation.

Networking

Our membership is comprised of some of the top global distributors of LE/mil and public safety gear, weapon systems, equipment and services. Our General Membership advise, mentor and partner with manufacturers in any and all aspects of product development to marketing and sales.

Our manufacturers and service providers comprise our Associate Membership. With full access to our General Membership, manufacturers have ample opportunities to establish profitable relationships and grow their businesses.

Annual General Meeting

Every year, NAPED holds an Annual General Meeting and Exhibit. The event provides a foundation by which our Associate Membership can personally meet and present to our General Membership a Special Buy program, and exhibit a variety of products just to the membership. Besides the opportunity to exhibit, the AGM provides plenty of relationship building activities, such as golf, skeet shooting, receptions and a banquet dinner event. No other meeting brings together the power of distribution with the best-in-class vendors in our industry.
