FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NAPED Welcomes Online Distributors and Retailers to its General Membership

The National Association of Police Equipment Distributors opens membership applications to online distribution/retailer companies in the law enforcement, public safety and military markets.

New Bern, NC (March 2017) – The National Association of Police Equipment Distributors (NAPED) has announced that it is welcoming online distributors and retailers within the law enforcement, public safety and military markets to its General Membership. NAPED, founded over thirty years ago, as an association for distributors, by which, through direct communication and networking could utilize shared information and knowledge, build their businesses. In 2017, NAPED continues to look to the future as it expands membership with online sales partners.

“Business models are not the same today as were yesterday and NAPED intends to stay in the front of those changes that will impact our membership,” Eldon Griggs, President of NAPED and VP of Business Development for GALLS, Inc., said. He added, “As business has moved towards digital models, NAPED too, is opening its membership to those distributors and dealers within our market sphere and with our knowledge bank, can certainly assist these companies in their growth projection.”

Interested online distributors or retailers must have purchased directly from at least fifteen recognized law enforcement, public safety and/or military equipment manufacturers; have a minimum of 5 years of law enforcement, public safety and/or military industry affiliation; a certain minimum dollar amount of sales annually and a favorable credit rating. Now, any distributor or retailer with a storefront, customer showroom or an online distributor/retailer can apply for membership with NAPED and start reaping the rewards of membership immediately.
